Interpretation of the decision of the right of the legal entities established in the EU

Legal entities with business establishment in one of the Member States of the European Union are allowed to use VAT (value added tax number) as an identifier.

Explanation

As decided by the Committee on the date of February 3rd 2014, legal entities with business establishment in one of the Member States of the European Union are allowed to register payable secondary domains without registered representative office, branch or any other organizational form in the Republic of Croatia.

In the explanation of the Decision it is stated that due to the technical execution of the Decision it is necessary that the entities to whom the Decision is referred to have personal identification number (OIB).

Since the technical obstacles relevant to the registration of the legal entities with business establishment in EU have been removed and that technical usage of the personal identification number (OIB) is not necessary, entities to whom the Decision is referred to are allowed to use VAT identifier (value added tax identification number) instead of personal identification number (OIB).
